

Refinery House's Commitment to Local Economic Development

At Refinery House, we are deeply committed to fostering local economic development for both our valued customers and dedicated employees. Our mission is to create a more connected and beautiful world that empowers the people to be FREE to become better at being who they already are, which opens the door to JOY.

Our dedication to our mission and to responsible and thoughtful business practices is reflected in our B Corp certification — the highest standards of social and environmental impact. Our commitment to support our local economy starts with the way we source our products. We pledge to procure a minimum of 50% of our expenses from independent businesses within the communities where we operate. This approach ensures that our purchasing power acts as a driving force for local businesses, furthering economic development and sustainable outcomes.

Furthermore, our dedication to our community extends to the clients who choose Refinery House for their needs. We are committed to serving our local community, where at least 75% of our clientele are from the areas in which we operate. We believe in creating authentic, meaningful connections with our clients and in celebrating the unique beauty and diverse styles of our local community. This approach not only bolsters our local economy but also enables us to connect with the very essence of our community.

At Refinery House, we stand firmly behind our commitment to being a catalyst for local economic development. Our mission isn't just about providing high-quality products and services; it's about making a positive impact on the places we call home. We invite you to join us in this journey, where every interaction you have with us supports our shared vision of a thriving local economy and a vibrant, independent community. Together, we are enabling access to opportunities and resources for connection, which we believe is at the very heart of healing the world.
